I Can't Make It

Black women make up a significant portion of the workforce yet hold only 1.6% of executive leadership roles in Fortune 500 companies. It's time to change that.

The Potential Unleashed Webinar features a panel of accomplished Black women leaders and learn their insights on career advancement, mentorship, networking, and advocacy.

Whether you're just entering the workforce or a seasoned professional in your career, you'll gain insights into:

- Overcoming barriers to leadership
- Building strong professional networks
- Leveraging mentorship for career growth
- Advocating for yourself and others

"State of the City" Address

Thursday, February 27th, the Anne Arundel County Chamber of Commerce hosted current Annapolis Mayor Gavin Buckley to give a "State of the City" address. As this is his final year in office, Mayor Buckley gave a lot of focus on reviewing the changes to the city during his time in office and making a final case for the plan to raise and revitalize the City Dock in the wake of increased flooding events. However, when discussing the ongoing issues and goals for the city, housing played a central role, understanding the need for young professionals, first responders, and service staff to be able to afford to live locally, and for the need to invest in our cities' underdeveloped areas to enhance safety, livability, and affordability. It was also an opportunity for the Government Affairs Director Max Gross and County Legislative Committee Chair Greg Fisk to meet with local leaders in the business community as well as public servants—including both announced Mayoral candidates for the upcoming election year.
